

Anti-Lynching Measure Will Be Placed Aside Indicates Sen. Barkley

Farm Bill Due for Consideration Wednesday — Will Shelve Lynching Bill at That Time is Belief.

SEE FLOOR FIGHT

Cotton Provisions in Agricultural Bill May Cause Prolonged Fight.

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky indicated today he would move to lay aside the anti-lynching bill next week.

Barkley voted against shelving the measure when southerners called, by a 52 to 34 vote, to postpone it yesterday. The vote was on a motion by Senator Glass (D-Va.) that the bill be displaced by the $1,400,000,000 independent appropriations measure.

The defeat left undaunted the bill's foes who have filibustered against the measure for a month. Barkley told reporters the Senate probably would mark time with continued anti-lynching speeches early next week and would take up the compromise farm bill Wednesday.

It was expected that after action on the farm bill, the anti-lynching measure would be brought to the floor for a vote on the day of legislation awaiting its attention.

Among other important measures now hanging fire are the government reorganization bill and the independent office, naval and treasury postoffice appropriations bills.

Barkley predicted the appropriations measures, already passed by the House, would win quick approval.

Another appropriation bill, the $27,000,000 first deficiency measure, was approved by the House yesterday and will reach the Senate calendar soon.

Both Senate and House were in recess today.

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Agriculture department opposition to last-minute changes in cotton provisions of the compromise farm bill raised the possibility today of a prolonged floor fight over the measure.

The controverted item was an amendment inserted at the behest of Senator Smith (D., S. C.) to speed up payment of part of the $120,000,000 bonus Congress had voted for 1937 cotton growers who complied with the 1938 program.

LEGISLATION ASKED TO SETTLE PLATE PROBLEM

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 5 (AP)—New York's legislature has been asked to settle the question of whether motorists who object to an inscription on their 1938 automobile license plates advertising the 1939 world's fair should be permitted to cover it up.

A bill introduced by Assemblyman Herbert A. Rapp, Geneva, county Republican, would permit automobile owners to cover the inscription with "paint or other substance" of the same color as the plates.

Another measure sponsored by Assemblyman Salvatore A. Faronca, New York Democrat, would make it a misdemeanor to cover up the words. The bill provides a fine of not more than $100 or 60 days in jail or both.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The position of the Treasury February 5: Receipts, $56,231,945.29; expenditures, $40,027,150.28; balance, $2,970,228,548.41; customs receipts for the month, $2,558,222.82; receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $3,585,669,909.69; expenditures, $1,520,302,172.78, including $1,203,130,250.48 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $945,132,263.69; gross debt, $37,312,216,020.10, an increase of $5,439,560.33 above the previous day; gold assets, $12,755,397,002.41, including $1,223,960,019.37 of inactive gold.

Wright Trial Continues

Los Angeles, Feb. 5 (AP)—The question of whether distraught Paul Wright, former airport president, committed murder when he slew his wife and his "best friend," John Kimmel, may not go to the jury before Wednesday. At least three more defense witnesses and 10 or more prosecution rebuttal witnesses remain to be heard. The trial recessed late yesterday until Monday.

Father-Poor Wedding Gift

Denver, Feb. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Jean Neustadter, 22, of Seattle, came here on her honeymoon today and received her father as a wedding present. Her husband, Robert Neustadter, arranged the meeting with Eugene Eastman, from whom Mrs. Neustadter was separated 20 years ago.

Chinese Soldiers Prevent Japanese Crossing of River

Shanghai, Feb. 5 (AP)—Dispatches from Suichow today said Chinese troops desperately defending the north bank of the Hwai river had prevented the Japanese from crossing the river north of Pengpu.

Japanese were trying to advance northward along the Tientsin-Pukow railroad to Suichow, where the railroad crosses the vital east-west Lunghai railway in the heart of central China's richest agricultural region.

Chinese dispatches said troops defending the north bank of the Hwai were under command of General Yuh Sueh-Chung. Serving under him were troops of the exiled Shantung warlord, Han Fu-Chu. These troops were said to be gallantly endeavoring to redeem themselves for their poor record under Han Fu-Chu, who was executed for failing to defend territory assigned to him.

While Chinese machine-guns and artillerymen blocked the river crossing above Pengpu, another Japanese column attacked Hwaiyimin, 10 miles west of Pengpu. Several Presbyterian missionaries and a church hospital are in this city.

Chinese press reports said the Chinese suffered severe losses in an attack on the Japanese rear near Wukiang, along the Anhwei-Kiangsu provincial border. The Japanese lost 400 men in the engagement.

Japanese naval sources said planes bombed a wide area of South China, concentrating on military forces and highways.

The Chinese believed they had frustrated a Japanese plot to overthrow the Nationalist government in Kwantung province and set up a pro-Japanese administration. Hundreds of Japanese undercover agents were under arrest after raids on secret Japanese headquarters in the city.

Japanese bombing planes joined in a naval attack on the Boca Tiger forts. Naval sources said three Chinese hangars were destroyed.

Miss Kelder "a Moron," Doctor Says on Stand

The first witness sworn this morning in the Mary Jane Kelder will contest action which has been on trial before George P. Kaufman, surrogate, and a jury for the past several days was Dr. James A. Mathers. Called as a witness for the contestants Dr. Mathers testified that he had observed Miss Kelder during her lifetime and he told the court that based upon his observations he would not classify her as "insane" but as a "moron." He explained that a moron was a person of low mentality.

He told the court and jury that a person suffering from the disease which ultimately caused her death would dull a person's mind and in advanced stages cause their mind to become so dulled that they might not comprehend their actions.

The will which disposes of an estate of somewhere between $20,000 and $40,000 was made in May of 1937 and a codicil was added on June 30, 1937, a few months prior to her death.

FDR Breach Unhealed

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—A judiciary committee now studying several constitutional amendments and some legislation that grew out of that fight.

Committee members have forecast that a bill soon will be reported providing many new federal judges in the lower courts. Senator Hatch, (D-N.M.) has offered a bill authorizing 7 new judges.

Most likely constitutional amendment to emerge from the court debate is the Norris proposal to make it easier in the future to change the constitution. A judiciary subcommittee is now holding hearings on the plan, offered during the court battle by Senator Norris (Ind-Neb.).

It would require that a constitutional amendment submitted to the states by congress automatically go on the ballots in the next general election. This would permit ratification by direct vote, and would assure prompt action. Amendments now are acted on by state legislatures or constitutional conventions.

Accused of Killing Three

That! - to Blondes Say Spencer Students in Selecting a Brunette Bud Queen?

Helen Petherbridge Will Compete in Junior League Event for Blossom Festival

MISS HELEN PETHERBRIDGE

Blondes are what gentlemen are supposed to prefer, but students (boys and girls) of Spencer's Business School, some 100 strong, picked Helen Petherbridge (black hair, brown eyes and very pretty) as their candidate to enter the Junior League semi-final event to determine who will be Queen of the Cister County Apple Blossom Festival in May.

We took it upon ourselves, reporter and photographer, to visit Delmer Kelly's secretarial factory and see what manner of "pickers" his students were. Having settled ourselves comfortably in the lounge and properly poked the young lady enough times to tire her out and break down her resistance, we garnered the following facts:

She is 17 years old, her birthday is July 17 and she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Petherbridge, of 276 Washington avenue. Mr. Petherbridge is an engineer with the New York City Department of Water Supply.

Miss Petherbridge was born in Prattville, where she lived until five years old. Immediately before coming to Kingston, her home was in Tannersville, where she attended high school for three years. She completed her education at Kingston High school, graduating last June.

Sports Fan

Statistics out of the way, we decided to go into the matter a little further, just to find out if beauty is more than skin deep.

"Do you like and engage in any sport?"

"I like basketball and play guard on Spencer's team," she replied, and right then and there we decided that basketball was not such a bad game after all. She likes ice skating, too.

"She sings," broke in Principal Kelly.

"Do you?" we asked.

"I can," says she, "but no one wants to hear me. What we mean is, do you?"

Hitler Supreme Ruler Of Army; Ribbentrop New Foreign Minister

Germany's Most Amazing Cabinet Crisis Finds Army More Strongly Nazi—Reichstag to Meet on February 20.

GOERING'S DEMAND No. 2 Man Reiterates Demand for Colonies Lost at End of World War.

By WADE WERNER.

Berlin, Feb. 5 (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler emerged today from Germany's most amazing cabinet crisis as the supreme commander to intensify Nazification of his army and to prepare the nation for a new step in world affairs.

The slim, moustached 48-year-old Fuehrer by a swift series of decrees shook high ranking, conservative generals from their jobs to end the crisis begun with the fiasco of his war minister's wedding bells.

He assumed for himself direct command of all Germany's armed forces; made sweeping changes in the diplomatic service, concentrating authority more than ever before in his own hands, with a secret council on foreign affairs, and named as his foreign minister the zealous Nazi, Joachim von Ribbentrop, the champagne salesman who became ambassador to London.

The net result was further Nazification of the military, acceleration of the process of fusing the party with the state.

The brakes were thrown off, in other words, and today a streamlined Nazi machine is gathering momentum as it heads for its next important move in international affairs.

Reichstag to Meet

Hitler has summoned the Reichstag to meet February 20 to hear an important pronouncement, and its nature will concern the minds of Germany and the world during the next fortnight.

The drastic centralization of authority was followed immediately by an insistent demand for return of Germany's lost colonies.

Field Marshal General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, No. 2 Nazi, who is slated to be war minister when Hitler completes party control of the army, renewed the demand for the colonies lost at the end of the World War.

"National Socialism has raised the demand for return of robbed German property and continues to raise it," the burly marshal shouted. Members of the diplomatic corps listened eagerly as Goering opened a special art exhibit dealing with colonies.

Whatever Hitler may reveal of his immediate plans when the Reichstag meets, one thing already is apparent—the swift events, following War Minister Marshal Werner von Blomberg's resignation because the army considered his carpenter's daughter bride "socially impossible," have removed conservative generals from positions where they might act as brakes.

May Take Danzig

There were circumstantial indications that Hitler might proclaim to the Reichstag that Germany was taking Danzig under her protection. (The town of Danzig, a surrounding territory was made a free city by the treaty of Versailles.)

It was possible also that Hitler would announce formally that Germany regarded herself as protector of German minorities everywhere. Return of German colonies and the Nazification of Austria also are known German aims.

By the decrees announced yesterday, the dyed-in-the-wool Nazi Von Ribbentrop replaces the elderly and conservative Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, who becomes chairman of the new secret cabinet council to advise on foreign affairs.

Today, Hitler himself, not a general raised in the old army traditions, is in direct control of the nation's armed forces, with a sort of deputy warlord carrying out the Fuehrer's instructions under the title "chief of the high command."

The "deputy" is Wilhelm Keitel, former state secretary in the war ministry, who attains to cabinet rank.

Von Fritsch Deposed

The Fuehrer deposed as chief of staff Gen. Werner von Fritsch, who forced the crisis by demanding that Von Blomberg resign, and named Walter Von Brauchitsch to his post. Von Brauchitsch, made colonel-general, has been commander of the motorized divisions of the army.

As part of the general shakeup, Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Nazi-doms No. 2 man, announced reorganization of the ministry of economics—one more step toward Nazification of the national economy, once directed by the brilliant but conservative Dr. Hjalmar Schacht.

Among the casualties in the army were said to be some of the "eighteen Christian generals" who Von Fritsch tried to slow Nazification the army, and criticized what they called a pagan trend away from the basic and

U. S. Asks Japan Whether She'll Build Battleships Larger Than 35,000 Tons

Plan Advanced to Get Department Store for Kingston

The latest development in the attempt to secure an occupant for the vacant store building on Fair street, formerly occupied by Montgomery Ward, appears to be the announcement that a committee of Kingston business men will visit New York city Wednesday for a conference with Oswald Knauth, president of the Associated Dry Goods Corp., with a view to see what, if anything might be done.

The committee will include Edward H. Remmert, president of the National Cister County Bank of Kingston, Schuyler C. Schultz, who is interested in the Fair street building and Berthold A. Knauth, a cousin of Oswald Knauth and who made the arrangements for the conference.

Mr. Remmert said this morning that the committee had nothing definite in mind except a desire to do anything they could to bring business to Kingston. He added that the contemplated conference is not connected, so far as he knew, with another proposition which it was rumored not long since, had in view the establishment of a store at the Fair street location.

Associated Dry Goods Corporation was incorporated in Virginia in 1916 as a holding company for department stores and related companies.

Soviet Accede to U. S. Request for Visit to Captive

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Soviet government acceded today to a request that a United States official be permitted to see Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens, American citizen incarcerated in Russia on suspicion of espionage.

Charge d'Affaires Loy Henderson called Secretary Hull today and Moscow had agreed to the long-standing American demands.

Henderson had asked that he or Second Secretary Angus I. Ward be allowed to visit Mrs. Rubens this afternoon or tomorrow.

Soviet authorities previously had informed the United States they would not permit an American diplomat to see Mrs. Rubens until after Russian police had finished investigating her case. State department officials said today that the inference is that they have now completed their investigation.

This was taken to mean Russia had not accepted Hull's principal right of visit "without delay," a principle on which he insisted soon after Mrs. Rubens' arrest became known.

Hull declined to comment today when asked whether or not Russia's accession to the request at this time meant in effect agreement with the principle.

Mrs. Rubens, who entered Russia under a false passport in company with a man known as Donald Louis Robinson, disappeared in Moscow December 5. A month later the Soviet government said she was under arrest.

Soviet Work Resumes

Moscow, Feb. 5 (AP)—Colder weather today enabled members of the Soviet polar party to resume scientific work on their drifting ice floe while awaiting the arrival of rescue ships. Fog in the Arctic Ocean east of Greenland delayed ice floe ships going to the aid of the scientists but danger of the ice floe disintegrating further was temporarily eliminated by a drop in temperature to 11 degrees (Fahrenheit) above zero.

$3,500 Robbery Is Solved

Columbus, O., Feb. 5 (AP)—Police recorded a $3,500 bank robbery as solved today with the bloody notation—one police detective and two bandit suspects slain, four persons wounded.

Vincent Grinkowicz, of Cleveland, and a man known only as "Mac" were killed when police and four men engaged in a gun battle in a two-story west side rooming house yesterday. Authorities were checking with the Federal Bureau of Investigation in an effort to identify "Mac."

Detective Robert M. Cline, 42, died in a hospital early today after physicians attempted to save his life through blood transfusions. He had been wounded in the stomach.

U. S. District Attorney Francis C. Canny said earlier that if any wounded officers died he would demand the death penalty for the surviving suspects. A federal law

"Little Fellows" Group May Form Permanent Unit

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Leaders of the "Little Fellows" conference agreed today to try to set up a permanent organization to keep the government advised of the small business man's needs.

Members of the committee which earned to President Roosevelt 23 conclusions reached by the noisy, two-day conference talked over with Secretary Roper the advisability of setting up a permanent organization similar to his advisory council, composed of "big" business men.

They reported an informal agreement to return here, possibly in late March or April, to try to evolve a definite plan of organization.

Mr. Roosevelt told the committee yesterday that if such an organization were formed, he felt the small business men should set it up themselves, rather than himself or a government agency naming its members.

The committee, headed by Fred Roth, Cleveland, Ohio, shoe man, spent an hour and a half with Mr. Roosevelt. They presented to him not only the recommendations of the general conference, but also a one personal view.

The meeting, as described by one of those attending, was informal. Secretary Roper and Assistant Secretary Ernest G. Draper sat in with the group.

The serious aspects of the little fellows' gathering continued, however, until the last.

A "zoo-crasher" managed to get in on the meeting with the President and White House police had to stop another.

The successful "zoo-crasher" was Joseph E. Kleckner of Chicago. The committee explained that Kleckner merely strolled in on the preliminary meeting. No one questioned his right to sit with the committee so he went along to see the President.

At a Moore's of Cincinnati, who presided over a rumpled session conference, which was stopped by White House doorkeepers from joining the conference with the President.

Moore said he had several conclusions to present to Mr. Roosevelt, the most important being to "throw out all legislation since the Armistice and start all over again."

Such consultation, however, the note said, should be completed by May 1.

The time limit of February 20 was set to Japan's reply so that, according to a State Department statement issued together with the note, this government would have time to prepare its own naval estimates and present them to the other powers to the London naval treaty of 1936—Britain and France—by May 1, as the treaty requires.

Cruisers More Than 10,000 Information is also demanded with regard to cruisers of not more than 10,000 tons.

The note commented: "The Japanese government has unfortunately not seen its way to subscribing to the London naval treaty nor has it hitherto felt able to give any assurances that treaty limits would in practice be adhered to by it."

It then added: "There have been for some time persistent and cumulative reports, which in the

Note to Tokyo Says, If Such is Case, the United States Will Build Larger Ships, Too—Would Discuss Limitations.

REPLY AWAITED

Hull Is Reported to Have Talked Over Communication with President.

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The United States asked Japan today whether she is building or intends to build battleships larger than 35,000 tons.

If so, a note to the Tokyo government said, the United States will build larger ships herself, but is willing to discuss limitations of their size.

Secretary Hull, announcing this action, said it was taken after consultation with Britain and France, signatories of the London naval treaty of 1936, who were taking similar steps.

The formal note presented to the Japanese government by Ambassador Grew demanded a reply by February 20. No reply, it said, will be regarded as an admission Japan is building ships beyond the limit and the United States will "resume full liberty of action."

The United States has built no battleships in excess of 35,000 tons, in accordance with the London treaty.

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, told the House naval committee this week that reports had been published in Tokyo that Japan was building a 47,000-ton craft. The navy, he said, had been unable to confirm these reports.

Publication of the state department's note led to speculation that it was this matter which Capt. Royal E. Ingersoll, head of the navy war planning board, discussed recently with the British admiralty.

Refuses Information

Leahy refused yesterday to disclose publicly the nature of Ingersoll's conversations, although telling the committee he would make a "frank statement" in private. His refusal brought conjecture that there was a naval understanding with Britain.

Japan's reply, if made, will be received while the committee still is considering the bigger navy program, and the answer presumably will be taken into consideration in the committee's conclusions.

Lack of a reply also will be considered by that time, together with all the implications that will be drawn from such a fact.

Secretary Hull attended a cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon and afterwards conferred privately with President Roosevelt. It was said they talked over the communication to Japan.

The assurance Hull demanded of Japan must stand the note, stating the American government must that if Japan will not, prior to January 1, 1942, lay down, complete or acquire any vessel which does not conform to the limits in question, without previously informing the American government of its intention to do so and of tonnage and caliber of the largest gun of the vessel or vessels concerned.

Expressed in Clause

The United States' willingness to discuss limitations of size was expressed by the clause:

"If, however, the Japanese government though engaged in, or intending to engage in, construction not in conformity with treaty limits, were willing to indicate forthwith the tonnages and calibers of guns of the vessels which it was constructing, or was intending to construct, the American government for its part would be ready to discuss with the Japanese government the question of tonnages and gun calibers to be adhered to in future if Japan were now prepared to agree to some limitation."

Such consultation, however, the note said, should be completed by May 1.

The time limit of February 20 was set to Japan's reply so that, according to a State Department statement issued together with the note, this government would have time to prepare its own naval estimates and present them to the other powers to the London naval treaty of 1936—Britain and France—by May 1, as the treaty requires.

Cruisers More Than 10,000 Information is also demanded with regard to cruisers of not more than 10,000 tons.

The note commented: "The Japanese government has unfortunately not seen its way to subscribing to the London naval treaty nor has it hitherto felt able to give any assurances that treaty limits would in practice be adhered to by it."

Rev. W. J. McVey To Be Installed Wednesday Night

The Rev. William J. McVey, pastor-elect of the First Presbyterian Church on Elmendorf street, will be installed as pastor of the church on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. McVey was called as pastor of the church by unanimous vote of the congregation at a meeting held on November 18. He preached his first sermon as pastor-elect on Sunday, January 23, and officiated in the celebration of the Lord's Supper last Sunday morning.

The Rev. Mr. McVey and his family, consisting of his wife and son, William John, Jr., 13 years old, came to reside at the manse at 195 Tremper avenue, on Thursday, January 27. He was formerly pastor of the Freedom Plains Presbyterian Church, located in the town of La Grange, which he served since August, 1928.

Prior to that he was assistant pastor in the First Presbyterian Church of Orange, N. J., for a period of six and a half years.

The service on Wednesday will consist of the following program: A sermon will be preached by the Rev. Frederick J. Baum, D. D., pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The Rev. William A. Burner, pastor of the Cornell Presbyterian Church and moderator of North River Presbytery, is to preside and propound the constitutional questions to both pastor and people. A charge to the pastor is to be given by the Rev. John Scott King, stated clerk of Presbytery, who for 47 years has been pastor of the Little Britain Church. The Rev. Devello S. Haynes, permanent clerk of Presbytery and pastor of the Highland Presbyterian Church is to deliver the charge to the congregation. Mr. Haynes was for several months Presbytery's moderator of the session of the First Church and presided at several important sessions of the congregation, incident to the change in pastor. The Rev. Wilber Stowe of Kingston, who supplied the pulpit for two months, is to offer prayer.

Miss Edna Merrihew, organist and choir director, is to present the following musical program for the installation service: Prelude—"Adagio Molto Movement" from 3rd Sonata by Gullmunt; Anthem—"I Will Feed My Flock" by Caleb Simpson; and postlude—"Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar.

Addition at the John St. Museum
A collection of chauffeurs' badges covering the 25 years from 1903 to 1928, made by Cyrus Carle and by him given to Joseph Vanderveer, has by the latter been placed on display in the window "museum" of Charles R. Stahl's barber shop in John street. Another exhibit in the window, which often causes passersby to stop and look it over is a collection of several hundred badges and buttons of all kinds and varieties, the latest addition being the big red apple worn by members of the State Horticultural Society at their recent meeting in Kingston.

Among his other souvenirs Charles has one of the fishing permits which were issued by New York Department of Water Supply office, during the World War years, to those desiring to fish in the Ashokan Reservoir. He says he well remembers the last day it was used—on November 11, 1918, Armistice Day, when with George DeGraff, former night watchman uptown, he was fishing in the reservoir. The two men left on their fishing trip early in the morning and had a chilly time of it, as it was a cold day. Before their return, late in the afternoon, Charles says they heard plainly the noise of the celebration of the Armistice that was staged in Kingston.

These special fishing permits, which were issued during the war time as a safeguard for the reservoir property, were discontinued after 1918.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

Packard Motor Cuts $100 on the New Packard Six

Packard Motor Car Co. sprung a surprise on the trade yesterday with the announcement of $100 cut in the prices of all body types of the Packard Six. This is the first break in new car prices since the 1938 model season got under way. General opinion seems to be that the move does not mean a general lowering in prices on the part of other makers, but that Packard, whose sharp increases upon introduction of the 1938 models were considerably sharper than those of the industry generally, has cut the prices on its Six to restore it to a price alignment with competing lines.

Following a conference between the President and a committee representing the "small business" in which the report called for sweeping revision of a number of New Deal policies was presented, it was stated that the President apparently believed that a majority of the recommendations were possible of fulfillment. However, the impression was given that the President would go no further on taxes than the present changes proposed by the House committee.

Stocks opened off in early trading yesterday, but rallied and closed the day with gains. In an 10,000 share market industrial issues were up 2.03 points for the day, to 120.52 on the Dow-Jones averages; rails were up 0.34, to 27.42; utilities advanced 0.19, to 24.44. Corporate bonds were up slightly, government eased. American and London markets were weak; Paris steady. Wheat was strong, with fair export demand; cotton steady.

Auto output this week is estimated at 51,443 units, compared with 50,565 last week and 72,010 a year ago. Barron's business index showed a drop of nearly a point for the week, to 61.1 per cent of normal. Chain stores reports for January show a slowing down in business. W. T. Grant's sales of $3,725,180, were off 5.3 per cent from a year ago. H. L. Green sales were off 11.4 per cent.

St. Paul is considering a $3,000,000 equipment program, including 55 passenger cars, 464 freight cars and four locomotives. American Smelting and Refining is estimated at around $13,250,000 vs. $17,131,036 in 1936.

Profit of Studebaker for last year may approximate 35 cents a share, compared with $1.01 in 1936. Congoleum-Nairn declared a dividend of 25 cents on common shares, vs. four payments of 50 cents each last year. Charges that Ford Motor Co. officials had "restrained and coerced" employees of the Somerville Ford plant in violation of the Wagner Act, were upheld by NLRB trial examiner Batten at Boston.

WPA OFFICIALS MAY REQUISITION WORKERS

Authority to requisition all qualified relief workers for which jobs are available has been given to area and field directors by Lester W. Herzog, New York State WPA Administrator.

Through this order, communities with available approved work relief projects will be able to reduce home relief lists. Through the recently ordered survey of work relief eligibles throughout New York state has not been completed, Administration Herzog's instructions allow the local WPA officials to requisition accepted cases where jobs are available without further waiting. Figures on the accepted work relief cases are being cleared from the State WPA headquarters' office, as fast as they are completed. The field and area officials were warned by Administrator Herzog not to requisition workers where no approved projects are available.

IL DUCE DOES THE "ROMAN STEP"

It used to be the "goose step" in Germany, but when Premier Mussolini of Italy (left) demonstrated it for the benefit of his army it became—by official christening—the "Roman step." Il Duce's soldiers are practicing it for the visit of Chancellor Hitler to Rome.

U. S. Asks Japan About Warships

absence of explicit assurances from the Japanese government that they are ill-founded, must be deemed to be authentic, that Japan has undertaken or intends to undertake construction of capital ships and cruisers not in conformity with the above-mentioned limits.

The note has the effect of refusing to accept as true, or to formally and authoritatively, the persistent denials by Japanese foreign office and military spokesmen that Japan is not building and does not intend to build battleships of over 35,000 tons.

It also was noted to Japan that the United States intends to avail itself of the so-called "escalator clause" in the London naval treaty. This is Article 25, which states that if any power not a party to the treaty builds or buys a ship larger than the prescribed limits, the parties to the treaty may do so likewise, after they shall have consulted among themselves with a view to reducing to a minimum the extent of the departures which may be made.

Navy's Plans The navy has plans already drafted for bigger battleships, to be brought out if the United States, Great Britain and France decide to throw overboard the present treaty limit of 35,000 tons. It has designs, too, for 18-inch guns—larger than any war craft has ever fired—but officials indicated guardedly today it was doubtful they would be used in preference to a greater number of rifles of 16-inch bore.

A monster of about 45,000 tons displacement, armed with twelve 16-inch guns, and able to slip through the present locks of the Panama Canal was pictured in naval circles as the most likely American answer to any Japanese disregard of the 35,000-ton ceiling.

Months probably would elapse between a decision to go ahead with bigger ships, and the actual laying of their keels. A 45,000-ton super-dreadnaught would cost far more than the $64,000,000—estimated cost of the North Carolina—possibly $80,000,000 or $100,000,000. Congress already has been told of costs of 35,000 tons probably would cost $70,000,000, because of rising prices.

Press Against Alteration

Columbus, O., Feb. 5 (AP)—Ohio newspaper publishers recorded today their protest against alteration of second class mailing privileges and termed the suggestion an "attempt to further control the press." W. F. Wiley, publisher of The Cincinnati Enquirer, asserted the large volume of franked, government mail and not the distribution of newspapers and other periodicals was responsible for the post office deficit.

Only 178,000 Voters

Kansas City, Feb. 5 (AP)—Kansas City had only 178,000 registered voters today, in sharp contrast to the 256,000 ballots counted in this city of 415,000 population in the November, 1936, general election. Some political observers termed the sharp decline in registrations a purge of the ghosts who stalked Kansas City's election booths in the 1936 election. Fifty election officials have been convicted by the government of fraud in the 1936 ballot and 112 others await trial on similar charges.

Stevenson Shrine Sought

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 5 (AP)—The state of New York will be asked to help preserve as a shrine the simple frame cottage where Robert Louis Stevenson once spent an Adirondack winter in his search for health. Members of the Stevenson Society, organized in 1915 to purchase the cottage, said that unless the state answered the appeal, there was grave danger that the cottage could not be preserved.

Old Record Ends With Fine

New York, Feb. 5 (AP)—A 38-year-old record tumbled when Thomas McHugh, trolley car motorman, was handed a summons yesterday for running through a red light in the heart of Manhattan. It was McHugh's first skirmish with traffic regulations in almost four decades as a trolley pilot. Abashed, he paid a $2 fine in traffic court without waiting for the judge to arrive, although he insisted he was innocent.

Freislinger Breaks Record.

Davos, Switzerland, Feb. 5 (AP)—Leo Freislinger of the United States broke the world record for 50 meters as the world ice skating championships opened today, but was edged out of first place by the Norwegian title-holder, Engnestangen, whose winning time was 41.8 seconds. Freislinger crossed the finish line in 41.9 for the best time ever made in the event by an American.

Duckbill Dinosaurs Able to Grow Teeth as Needed

Duckbill dinosaurs weren't at all like ducks when it came to the matter of teeth. They had about the finest dental mills any animal in the world has ever possessed, according to C. W. Gilmore, curator of vertebrate paleontology at the United States National Museum. Two thousand teeth, ranged in rows both horizontal and vertical, formed a Z-shaped equipment for one of them.

But it was all right, even for the creatures that inhabited the earth at the same time. Duckbill dinosaurs were quite harmless, feeding entirely on plants. Much more formidable were the fiercer teeth in the jaws of the tyrannosaurs; their six-inch spikes, shaped like barracuda teeth but ten times bigger, were terrible tearers of flesh.

To get back to the duckbills: they not only had these batteries of many hundreds of teeth ready for immediate action at all times, but they had plenty more where they came from. If a tooth was worn out or broken, it was immediately replaced. Back of all the teeth were tooth buds ready to grow new ones; so a duckbill never had to worry about a toothless old age. If the tyrannosaurs let him get old, he still had his full set of teeth to the end.

A much bigger dinosaur, also a plant-eater, yet with fewer and weaker teeth, was Diplodocus, of which the National Museum has a fine skeleton. "Dippy's" teeth were all in the front end of his jaws, and they were slender and rake-like. He had no real chewing teeth at all. It is therefore conjectured that Diplodocus raked up soft vegetation from the swamps and shallow lakes where he wallowed and gulped the mess down whole, to be ground up in his gizzard by the pumeli or so of stone he habitually kept inside for that purpose.

Loan Closet Plan Progresses

Following the suggestion of the leaders in the "Pneumonia Control" lessons, the Flatbush unit has plans under way for establishing a loan closet. Contrary to the usual procedure of buying the necessary articles to equip a closet, this unit is planning to have each member make a list of the sick room articles she has to loan. When these lists are complete, typed sheets will then be made and given to the members with the information at whose home any needed articles may be obtained. In this way the members will still have the use of their own supplies but they will be available to others when needed. Already many things have been offered, including a hospital bed, chair, crutches, combination tray and feeding board, thermometers, sand bags, water bags, ice caps and numerous other articles.

Local Death Record

Several witnesses were sworn Friday in the Mary Jane Kelder will contest action. Among them was Mrs. Goldie Jamieson who acted as nurse for several weeks in the Kelder home in 1935. She testified to numerous "irrational" acts which she observed on the part of Miss Kelder.

Mrs. Jamieson said she had kept a record of some of these acts in her chart which she kept in connection with her nursing work. At times Miss Kelder would play with dolls and teddy bears. She used to talk to them, dress and undress the dolls and the witness told of Miss Kelder mimicking dogs and cats. She said she had seen Miss Kelder spit at her sister and at times she had seen her talk to the canary bird and spit at it.

Another employee in the Kelder home, Mrs. Alice Harrington, was called by the contestants and she told the court and jury that Miss Kelder knew of the nature of her illness and it preyed upon her mind. There were also times when she suffered pain.

John Kelder, a brother and one of the contestants, was on the stand during the morning session and said that he had visited his sister several times during her illness. In fact several times a week. He told the court and jury that during the time of the operation of the Kelder Livery Stables on Fair street adjacent to the firehouse, he and his brothers had worked in the place. The family residence was next the business place and adjoining the Opera House building until business replaced the residence property. At all times he said the family lived in harmony.

The case will be continued today.

could be the property of drivers who couldn't be trusted to operate a bicycle safely. This doesn't mean that the automobile accident toll cannot be reduced. It can be,
 but it is going to take action, not words. The individual responsibility of each motorist when he slides behind the wheel of a projectile weighing a ton or two and capable of doing 50 miles an hour,
 must be driven home. Law enforcement must be strengthened.
 It must be realized that driving a car on the public highway is a privilege, not a right to be abused.

There are several thousand graves throughout the country that give mute testimony to our past laxity in controlling the automobile. Unless public demand forces a change, you may fill one of thousands of new graves that, figuratively speaking, will be dug by motorists in the years to come.

HAPPY TOWN

The first 21 days of 1938 were quiet ones in Kendallville, Ind., it claims made in the name of that city of 6,000 inhabitants were true. In that time no one was arrested and no cases were tried in city court. The two departments was not called out. There were no violent deaths. Most remarkable of all, in an election year, no citizen offered himself as a candidate for any public office.

Is Kendallville a record unique?
 Or are there other small cities in the country in which inhabitants can go for quite a while without breaking the law or quarrelling
 with their neighbors or setting their homes on fire? Probably there are. And there are more people in any town who do not rob banks or shoot their neighbors
 than there are people who do.

SUGGESTED CANCER CURES

It is sometimes hard for many of us to understand why out-county, state, or provincial medical societies frown upon "cures" for cancer. If the cure has any merit why should it not be given a thorough trial even if it does not come from some celebrated research physician or research department of a recognized medical college or university? Many are apt to think, and occasionally
 may be true, that it is "jealousy" or prejudice on the part of the medical profession that prevents the profession from even trying these cures.

As a matter of fact, the majority of physicians are not jealous or prejudiced but feel that while the "cause" of cancer is unknown, the "cure" of it in early cases is known and that lives may be lost if these known methods of cure—surgery, X-ray and radium—are not given early.
 To lose time in trying out unknown cures would rob the patient of his chance for life.

It is with deep satisfaction
 therefore that we learn that the United States Government has created a National Cancer Institute with a grant of Ten Million Dollars. "It will, appropriately, be constructed at Bethesda, Maryland, on land bequeathed for the purpose to the government by the late Luke Wilson, himself a recent victim of cancer."

One glance at the directors of the Institute gives one the assurance that from the standpoint of scientific research most of the outstanding authorities on cancer in the United States have been gathered into one group to try to overcome this terrible scourge of our present day civilization.

The Board of Directors is Dr.
 Arthur H. Compton, Chicago; Dr.
 James B. Conant, Harvard University; Dr. Francis Carter Wood, Columbia University; Dr. Clarence
 Cook Little, Bar Harbor, Maine;
 Dr. Ludwig Hecton, University of Chicago; and Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon-general, United States Army.

One other physician may be appointed because of his known ability as an administrator and because "it is likely that he will afford an honest trial of some methods of treatment now knocking at the doors of medicine,
 which have been denied investigation by prejudice and ignorance. Some new ideas, new conceptions, new methods of approach must be given a dignified hearing."

I believe the above information that a government institute will give any and every method of curing cancer a "dignified"
 investigation should be comforting
 to all of us.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

BY ALAN LEMAY

SYNOPSIS: Carrying a gun-cargo for Rajah Mantusen, we encounter a jungle war between the Dyaks and the Malays on Sumatran island. The Dyaks are holding my uncle, James Clyde, prisoner, until I (Paul Thorne) can bring our fortified
 trading vessel, the Linkang, up-river to aid the Malays. Mantusen blames Clyde for the war,
 but a young English girl, Christine Forrester, is responsible. Her father planned the revolt, taught the Dyaks to shoot, and she is supplying the Dyak guns.

Chapter 17

Stalemate

"IF THOSE Dyak riflemen are as good as you say, and they're going to sweep the Malay stockade all the time, my uncle has a fine chance to get shot before I ever get to him again," I said.
 "I think he's safe from that,"
 answered Christine. "I don't think the Tanyalang sharpshooters will fire until he's out of there. Perhaps a few random shots—that's to be expected of those people. But the worst of it will hold off."

"So you think you control them as well as that?"
 "No, of course not. They got their orders with their rifles, and I suppose they will obey them, in a general way. But I haven't enough communication with them, even if they were thoroughly disciplined
 troops, to change orders in any detail. They were told to sharpshoot
 the Malay stockade until Mantu-
 sen took to the river; then they're
 supposed to race along the shore,
 forming an ambush area for the Malays. But you see, the Tanya-lang didn't know what you were
 doing at Mantusen's stockade.
 They think Anthony Forrester is
 all-powerful here, the same as Mantusen thinks Clyde is. The fact that you reached Mantusen at all
 shows that they believe I sent you."

I thought of the flurry of spears that we had come through, up the Siderong. But there was no use to talk about that. Those might have come from the disorganized Malays. But I haven't enough communication with them, even if
 they were thoroughly disciplined
 troops, to change orders in any detail. They were told to sharpshoot
 the Malay stockade until Mantu-
 sen took to the river; then they're
 supposed to race along the shore,
 forming an ambush area for the Malays. But you see, the Tanya-
 lang didn't know what you were
 doing at Mantusen's stockade.
 They think Anthony Forrester is
 all-powerful here, the same as Mantusen thinks Clyde is. The fact
 that you reached Mantusen at all
 shows that they believe I sent you."

"If you were attacking Mantusen, of course they would help
 you in every way."

"But I can't attack Mantusen.
 Nothing is going to get Clyde out of there alive except a complete smash-up of the Dyak blockade."
 She spoke slowly and almost tonelessly. "That is something you can't possibly do."

"I'll do it because I've got to do it. Look here—if what you say is true—"

"Well, for the sake of the argument, I'll say that I believe you.
 At least, I do believe you—partly,
 at least. Look here, you know you can't pull the tribes off; but if the Tanyalang retire, a whole lot of heart ought to go out of the rest."
 I didn't suppose, of course, that she could do much. She had been able to exercise a little authority over the Dyaks at first, on account of Anthony Forrester's reputation among them, and his promise of guns; but that authority would break down as soon as all the gunning was over. I had no faith in the future of the Malays. Those Dyak tribes mistrusted one another too much for that. They would have a fine interchange of village raids before the Malays could get organized again, and by that time Mantusen's kismet—
 with James Clyde as hostage tied on—would have grown tighter. Long ago of waiting for rescue by the Linkang. Whatever was done for Clyde would have to be done at once, even if the best combined efforts of the Linkang and the Avon were clumsy and unpredictable as to their results.

"Impossible!"

"If you control the Tanyalang to any extent at all," I said now,
 "pull them off."

"You're asking me to try to make a bluff," she asked uncertainly.
 "Until you can get Clyde out of there?"

"Well, why not? After all, Mantusen has got Clyde. I know he means nothing to you personally,
 but he's one of our own people,
 just the same."

"It's impossible!"

"Why?"
 "Once the Tanyalang start to draw back the whole thing will go to pieces. We don't have all the tribes in the Balingong radius—we don't have more than a quarter or a third of them. If once the blockade breaks, the hill tribes controlled by the Malays will rise, and our Dyaks will be hunted clear out of existence."

That was true, of course. There were numerous small Dyak tribes on Sumatran, and many of them the Malays could throw against their own people. Almost all tribes were customarily not only willing, but eager to join the Ma-lays against any others, simply because the Malays always won.

One Reason for Our Billion-Dollar Defense Budget

By BRESSLER

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — There have been some hilarious anecdotes about the great and the near-great in the theater, but this story concerning Jane Cowl, who is one of the theater's better actresses, seems to be funnier than the rest.

There was another actress who told of an opportunity to appear with Miss Cowl in a play.

"I'd think it over," a friend warned her. "When Jane Cowl is on stage everybody else is secondary. You won't get much of a chance."

"Oh, I don't know," replied the girl. "Jane told me she likes to mix
 it up—once in a while she's the star
 and the next she carries a platter."

"Listen," the friend said, "any platter Jane carries will have to have on it the head of John the Baptist."

It is Joe Penner who puts in his 2-cent words with this one—the one about the comedian who became so affluent that he sent his poor old father a $125 coat. But knowing his dad's conservative nature, he said that the coat cost only $25. Next week he was horrified to receive this note from his father:
 "Rush six more coats of the same.
 Just told the one you sent me for $35."

THERE was a session of frantic wiring, checking with railroad officials, but time grew shorter and no costumes came out of hiding to ease her agitation. Finally, she seized the manager's arm and they hurried to a telephone. The chief of a department store agreed to meet him at his establishment although it was then 1 A. M. Miss Humphrey tore through the store,
 seizing yards and yards of material for this and that department.
 They piled into a cab and hurried home.

Between then and curtain time
 that night Miss Humphrey designed and put together a dozen costumes. And the papers unanimously acclaimed her "unique and ingenious costumes." Fortunately, they held together throughout the performance—and her trunks arrived early next morning.

But this dancer is still toying with the idea of fashioning new styles in clothes for women.

On his recent visit to the Big City, M. Keighley, the film director, ducked up to Connecticut for a week-end with James Melton.
 They're old friends. Melton has a fine farm there.

Training School

Twenty 4-H Club local leaders attended the training school for beginning sewing, held February 2 at the lecture room, 74 John street, with Mrs. Helen Jones Schilling, program assistant, from Cornell University.

Mrs. Schilling besides demonstrating the making of aprons, luncheon cloths, smocks, and various sewing methods, led discussion on the problems that a 4-H Club leader has to overcome
 in order to have a successful club
 and what results are obtained by 4-H Club work. Each leader participated in this discussion and the objectives accomplished by 4-H Club work for each member was the development of responsibility, leadership, ingenuity, skill, getting along in group cooperation and benefiting community and themselves.

Flatbush Reformed Church

Celebrating its 120th anniversary in June 1937, the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of Flatbush stands out as one of the historic old churches of Ulster county. The church records contain many interesting accounts of events directly connected with this old stone church, and the anniversary celebration of last year served to bring to the attention of the public the traditions and folklore with which the churches of this section of the country are richly endowed.

The Church Building

The present old stone edifice
 enjoys an excellent location,
 standing on a slight elevation
 about a mile from the Hudson river and near the center of the parish and commanding a fine view of the Catskill mountains. It is the original building but, additions have been made on both ends, one of which gave the church its steep

Brims will Tell the Story in your Next Hats

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

The news in spring hats lies in color, variety and renewed interest in brims.

That's the word brought from Paris by Sally Victor, one of America's outstanding hat designers, who recently returned with a turquoise toque tilted over one eye and a number of new Paris chapeaux in her luggage.

"Spring hats bloom with color," she says. "Generally it's grafted to a black or navy blue body by flowers, colored veils, shirred or ribbon trims, though a number of colored felt hats are also seen. Turquoise, a new rose-pink and burnt sugar are among the new shades, which include many muted tones, such as medium blues and greens.

"There is much variety in shapes—almost as much as there was this winter. Pillboxes, toques, sailors and forward-pitching hats inspired by Watteau's paintings are all good. Mingled with the talked-of low crowns, there are some high crowns and high-trimmed low ones.

"But I think the real interest has moved from crowns to brims. Some brims roll back from the face, inspired by the Paris exhibition's display of Goya's paintings which is having an influence on spring hats. Other hats pitch over the forehead. Many are accented with shirred, colored ribbons or jerseys or are trimmed with flowers.

"And to those of us who make hats, there is news and interest in the fact that sewn straw braids, such as millans, are very much in the picture.

Soft-colored "feminine" flowers such as hyacinths and lilacs are indicative of the floral trend, says Mrs. Victor.

Veils, still very much in the picture, are woven with colored meshes or splashed with colored dots. They are draped in new ways—under the chin or looped under the hair at the nape of the neck.

Helps for Housewives

Liquid measures: Two gills equal one cup; two cups equal one pint; two pints equal one quart; four quarts equal one gallon.

To stick two types cookies together in preparing a party food, spread the lower one with slightly beaten egg white. Add the upper cookie and put the two in the oven to bake.

Thin strips of dried herring make a tasty addition in the snape tray. The salty flavor blends nicely with cocktails.

To improve the flavor of carrots, turnips, cabbage, onions and peas add a fourth of a teaspoon of sugar for each three cups of water used in cooking.

If you want a gelatin mixture to congeal quickly pour it into a wide, shallow metal mold in preference to a deep fold of earthenware or china.

Serve a Batch of Cookies For a Heart-y Valentine

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

Heart-shaped Cookies
Express your Valentine sentiments with heart-shaped cookies. Serve them at your Valentine bridge. Or do them up in fluffy packages to send to your daughter away at school or the gentle little lady down the street.

One basic recipe will go for a whole batch, but you will need all the cutters you have. You might even make patterns of your own to add to the variety.

The cookies will be a lot better if you roll the dough thin and then chill it an hour or so—outdoors or in the refrigerator—before you start cutting. As fast as you cut out dough shapes transfer them to a greased baking sheet with a spatula. Be sure to watch the baking closely so that the edges of the cookies don't get too brown. And turn the baking sheets occasionally so that the cookies will brown evenly.

Suggestions On Shapes
Here are some suggestions for cutting:

Arrange small hearts on larger, round cookies of different flavors and colors.
Cut hearts from round cookies, baking the cutouts as well as the centers.

Put hearts of contrasting flavor and color on square cookies. Sprinkle granulated sugar, mixed with candied orange peel, over the tops of cookie dough. Vary the mixture with chopped nuts, candied cherries and coconut.

Here's a simple basic cookie recipe:

Valentine Cookie Recipe
2½ cup butter, 2 cups granulated sugar, 2 eggs, 1½ cup cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ teaspoon salt, 4 cups flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder.

Cream butter and sugar until very soft. Add eggs, cream, vanilla and salt. Beat together for one minute. Add the rest of the ingredients. Chill. Roll out dough until it is very thin and cut out the cookies. Bake for about eight minutes on a greased baking sheet in a moderate oven.

Basic Recipe Variations
And here are several ways to vary the basic recipe:

Chocolate—Add two squares of melted chocolate.
Butterscotch—Substitute dark brown sugar for the granulated sugar, sour cream for the sweet cream, and one teaspoon of soda for the baking powder.

Spice—Add two teaspoons of cinnamon and one teaspoon each of cloves and nutmeg to butterscotch cookies.
Raisin-Nut—Add one cup of raisins and half a cup of nuts to the butterscotch recipe.
Cocoanut—Add half a cup of cocoanut, substitute orange juice for the cream and use lemon extract instead of vanilla.

Etiquette Sea-Going Vacationers Ahoy! Here Are Some Tipping Tips

By JOAN DURHAM

Now is the time for cruise-minded vacationers to check up on ship-board customs and behavior. If you're going on a cruise, says Arthur Kraft, general passenger agent of a company operating several cruise boats, you won't get the most out of it unless you get into the spirit of the thing.

The cruise-director will make every possible effort to do the necessary ice-breaking. But if he doesn't manage to introduce you to the pretty blonde who's traveling with her father, don't sit around in the dumps. Try a smile and speaking up for yourself. If that doesn't work, ask the director if he can manage an introduction.

Possible Excuses
He'll sound out the girl and make her excuses if she doesn't care to be introduced. (She can say she's resting ... or otherwise occupied ... or has to stay with her father.)

What about tipping?
There are two people you must tip: the room steward and the dining room steward (your waiter). Optional are the deck steward (you must tip him if you sit on deck), smoking room and bath stewards, the stewardess (if you're a woman and get seasick) and the bell boys.

Ten Per Cent Of Cost
Your total tips are likely to run about 10 to 15 per cent of the cost on less expensive cruises. On a seven-day cruise, for instance, the room and dining-room steward each should get about 50 cents a day—or $3.50. The deck steward should get about a dollar for looking after your chair and a little more if you ask for special service. The bath steward, too, rates about a dollar for a short trip—two dollars for a slightly longer one.

Only tip the bell boys, smoking room steward or the stewardess if you call them into service 10 cents up, depending on what they do for you.

Last-minute hint: Don't over-exercise or go in for too much sunbathing right off the bat. An aching passenger is no asset to ship sociability. A sunburned one is even worse.

You're Puzzled by Strange Dreams?

"The strangest dream I ever had," That sentence, spoken in a roomful of people, invariably starts a chain of stories about dreams—baffling, odd, comic.

John tells about his dream of sitting in a cage at the zoo. He remembers he kept saying, "I can't get my umbrella up."

And Marjorie vividly describes her dream embarrassment at being taken to a formal reception at the Governor's mansion when she was wearing only a bathing suit.

How absurd dreams are, every body says. But you, if you understand dreams, keep thoughtfully silent. You realize how much happier these people would be if they could read these dream messages from the unconscious mind and could act on them.

John's cage is a symbol of his fear that he has been trapped by life. He would like to get away from his uninteresting work. The umbrella? He wants to be sure of security before he makes

Beauty Standing Straight Isn't Enough; Now You Need A 'Balinese Back'

By BETTY CLARKE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Beauty experts have worked out a new "ideal" in posture.

It's called the Balinese back. Miss Ann DeLafield, New York beautician who centers many of her exercises around acquiring the Balinese back, describes it as "The back that is hung in a straight line from behind the ears."

How It's Achieved

It is achieved naturally by the women in the famous island of Bali—in the Malay Archipelago—who constantly carry heavy baskets and jars on their heads.

It differs from the old-fashioned "straight as an arrow" posture in just one thing: the position of the back at the waistline.

There is one good exercise for attaining the Bali back. It goes like this:

Stand close to the wall, making sure that you have pushed these four points of your body as close to the wall as possible: Head, shoulders, hips and heels.

Keep your toes pointed straight ahead.

Now bend your knees slightly. Pull the bottom of your spine away from the wall so that the spine where your waistline is touches the wall.

Not So Simple

Next draw your chin in as far as you can so that the back of your neck, if it doesn't already do so, is also touching the wall.

Then have someone place a book on the top of your head and slowly, thinking only of keeping your spine next to the wall, push the book up the wall with your head.

Yes, it sounds very simple. But try it. You'll be surprised to feel the strenuous tug of muscles lifting your neck.

OLD-FASHIONED ARROW. Only four of the necessary five points of the body are touching the wall in this old-fashioned posture. Although the model stands as straight as an arrow she has a decided sway back.

NEW 'BALINESE BACK' Head, shoulders, waist, hips and heels are all pushed against the wall in this exercise to attain the Balinese back. Beginning with the knees slightly bent the model slowly pushes the book up the wall.

The Well-Dressed Home Lunches Have To Be Gay With Today's Tablecloths

NOVEL NAPERY Here are two new designs in table linen—a wild fowl motif at the top, a children's Noah's ark design below.

By MARY DAVIS GILLIES
Prepared by McCall's Magazine for The Freeman.
Nowadays, half the success of a party is assured by a lively or unusual table setting. And the newest tablecloths accept the challenge.

Not only have we had a color for every mood, but this year, there is a design for every party.

Especially intriguing are the sporting themes—fishing, hunting, riding to hounds are all pictured gaily on lunch cloths and mats. Some are printed, others embroidered.

There is, for instance, a steeple chase race-course down the center of the table with its throng of spirited horses and multi-colored jockeys—guaranteed to start a lively conversation.

Ducks, rabbits or deer are featured in hunting designs. One has black and white pointers on a flock of ducks applied on a border, with maple leaves scattered in the middle. Amusing indeed is a cloth printed with rabbits and fish. Contrasting with these sporting dy cloths is one in all-white or gandy with appliqued fish. Old-fashioned figures in sleighs and on skates make a delightful cloth for a winter buffet supper. And for those special dinners for gourmet friends, there's a magnificent cloth embroidered in motifs from the French provinces. For the children, spinach and cereal are no longer problems when the cloth is printed with animals and toys or is embroidered with a fairytale of castles and knights. Gay table mats in coarse linen have burred white woolly puppets. There are several styles of practical cork mats—one printed with bright posies, another with alphabet blocks.

"A knife rack saves time, energy and knives, since knives are dulled more from coming in contact with other metal than from actual use," says Cornell bulletin.

Read It Or Not

The sun's rays reaching the earth are hotter in winter than summer.

The law plainly specifies that a man who goes out to rob and carries a gun is a potential murderer, and treat him as such. When an auto driver gets behind the wheel with a load of alcoholic dynamite under his belt he is as much a potential murderer as the crook, and even more dangerous because he may kill a half dozen innocent human beings.

Old Lady (smiling as she put her hand on his arm)—Officer, I want to tell you that your number is the number of my favorite hymn.

High Speed... They say there are sheep in the Himalayas that can run forty miles an hour. That's the only kind that could follow Mary today.

Voice (on phone)—Hello! Is this the police station?

Seizant—Yes, what's the matter?

Voice—I just wanted to tell you that you need not search for my husband. He had forgotten to take off his overcoat, and I hung him in the closet by mistake.

What's the use? By the time you get a thing back they've bought out a new model that makes yours seem junk.

There's always three sides to any question:

Quota Reached as 2 New Members Join Railroad Club

The charter membership number 15 men was closed at the regular weekly meeting of the Hudson Valley Model Railroad Club held at the club house Thursday evening, as applicants King Bogardus and Julius Linton were received into the organization. This means that all who wish to join the club from this time on, will come in as regular members at a slightly increased assessment.

Although it has taken approximately six months for the charter membership to be completed, work at the club house has gone steadily forward and to date about 300 feet of trackage has been laid for the right of way of the Hudson Valley Lines. The roundhouse and turntable are being constructed, the freight yards have been laid out, and the necessary storage tracks in the main terminal yards have been completed. The scenic supervisor has created a base appearing mountain in one corner of the club house, and a tunnel shows the way for the two-track main line through this miniature Pike's Peak. Further scenic effects will include a ferry slip such as the one at Rhinecliff with the railroad station nearby, a long wooden trestle already completed, an oil refinery, factories, churches, and all the various houses that are to be found in railroad town.

Power and Test Made. Another group of the members, who are electrically inclined, are endeavoring to arrange the proper power lines for the operation of the railroad, and the installation of a block-signaling system some time in the future.

Sunday afternoon a test was made of the Hudson-type locomotive to determine its tractive force, but no definite conclusions could be reached as the little engine hauled 16 freight cars, two pullmans, and a baggage car without much difficulty—all the equipment available at that time.

The general plan being followed in the construction of the Hudson Valley line was drawn by Addison Schultz and follows the idea of a railroad running along a river valley, similar to the New York Central system from New York to Albany. In many instances various pieces of equipment have been patterned after New York Central standards.

Plan Annual Show. It was proposed at the meeting that an attempt be made to complete enough of the layout to have a full-opening exhibition, and then plan an annual model show similar to the one sponsored by the N. Y. Society of Model Engineers in New York city which last year drew thousands of people to the 12nd street quarters of that society to view the exhibit. However, since the standards of the club require all work to be as nearly perfect as possible and because of the additional time needed to comply with such standards, it was the consensus of opinion that it would be almost impossible to have a satisfactory exhibit ready for a full opening.

With 15 members now on the roster, the Hudson Valley Model Railroad Club is striving to construct and maintain a complete model railroad system which will include all the features of the large railroad lines and will afford an outlet for the yearning which most men retain from boyhood, the yearning to have some part in the operation of a railroad system or the thrill obtained from various railroad operations.

about it, but just because I don't want to," she answers.

"Ever been a beauty queen, or in a contest like this before?"

"No, but my last year in high school I was an attendant to the May Queen," she replied.

Perhaps A Screen Test

Here we explained that there was a rumor that one of the major motion picture concerns would send a "scout" here to look over the finalists and perhaps arrange a screen test for one or more of the contestants. "Have you ever done any acting?" we say.

"I'm not an actress, but have had parts in plays at Tannersville High School and in my church."

"If you should get the opportunity to go to Hollywood, would you go?" we ask.

"I don't know," she says, "but I suppose, if that chance came, I would take it."

Here she explained that she was a movie fan and attended most of the local shows.

"Have you happen to decide you wanted to be a secretary?"

"It's nice work and I like it," says she.

"She'll be a darn good one too," ventures Kelly, to which we could only say "and how" and consider taking up with the management the desirability of reporters having secretaries.

"Guess that's all," we say, "unless you want to tell us some of your views."

"I think I'll go over and have a malted milk," she says and does—leaving us to look at malted milk in a different light.

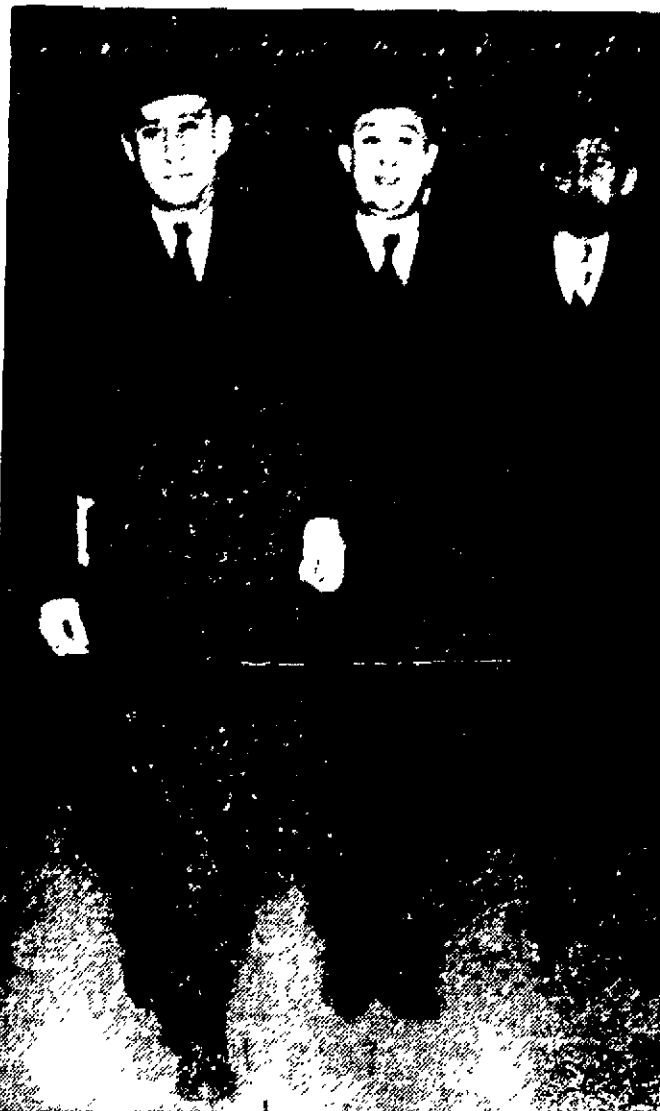

We go into a huddle, (reporter, photographer and Kelly) and decide that here is a girl who will make some of the other contestants step around, if they are to beat her. We reach one other conclusion—she looks like Rochelle Hudson, and we were always partial to Rochelle.

DAVIS BAIL HEARING DELAYED

A hearing on a writ to free the bond of J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, held in a New York City jail, was postponed when the two were brought into court in Philadelphia. Bond originally was set at $20,000 for each prisoner. New York state mounting piecemeal efforts to extradite Weinberg and Davis, known as a "mouthpiece" for the late "Dutch" Schultz.

Plans Progressing For Formation of Aldermanic Group

Plans are progressing for the formation of a Kingston Aldermanic Association, organized along similar lines to that of the Ulster county Supervisors' Association. The names of all of the men eligible for membership in the new organization have been tabulated.

The record shows that 58 or more men are eligible for membership, including the present members of the common council. It is expected that as soon as plans are completed by the committee having the organization in charge that all of the men eligible for membership will be invited to meet to form a permanent organization and elect officers.

Three contracts, totaling $33,943.605, for a 19-mile aqueduct, covering work in Westchester and Putnam counties, part of the $27,587,000 Delaware water supply project, will be readvertised and relet on a basis of reduced rates of wages.

It is stated that the wage rates called for in the contracts, which were awarded but never certified to by the Board of Water Supply, are admittedly exorbitant.

The schedule is said to have been obtained from the office of State Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews last October and written into the three contracts as the lowest rates to be paid labor on that section of the project.

A comparison of the rates with those contained in a contract let in January, 1937, shows hourly rates for carpenters increased from $1.20 to $1.75; for drill runners from 90 cents to $1.25; for painters from $1 to $1.50.

The lower schedule is said to be acceptable to representatives of labor, who realized that establishment of an excessive prevailing rate of wage, the minimum which can be paid on public construction, would actually injure labor by delaying planned projects because of expense.

An unexplained factor in the whole situation is said to be the disparity of rates handed down by the Industrial Commissioner's office. The rates now in the Commissioner's office are known to be substantially lower than those in the three disputed contracts.

Rates given early this month to the Tunnel Authority, however, are known to be approximately the same as the rates disputed on the water supply contracts. Both rates apply to the same type of work.
